

THE MISSION

Booker T. Washington National Monument preserves and protects the birth site and childhood home of Booker T. Washington while interpreting his life experiences and significance in American History as the most powerful African-American between 1895 and 1915. The park provides a resource for public education and a focal point for continuing discussions about the legacies of Booker T. Washington and the evolving context of race in American society.

Booker T. Washington National Monument

MISSION STATEMENT FOR EDUCATIONAL PROGRAMS

It is the mission of Booker T. Washington National Monument's education program to satisfy the curriculum needs as specified in the Standards of Learning for Virginia Public Schools utilizing the park as a classroom. The programs and activities included in the Educational Guide to Booker T. Washington National Monument are designed to meet these requirements while introducing students to the life of the young slave boy, Booker.

By engaging in pre-visit, on-site, and post-visit activities, students will focus on learning concepts appropriate to their grade level while developing an appreciation for the problems and hardships of the people in Franklin County over a century ago, especially those of African American descent.

The activities included in this guide enable students to investigate, research, and participate in "hands on" learning experiences. They will build a strong foundation in communication skills, research techniques, computer skills, writing, and thinking in terms of multiple points of view. These activities also have cross-curriculum applications.

At Booker T. Washington National Monument, students will learn about the cultural diversity that makes up Franklin County, Virginia. It is the hope of Booker T. Washington National Monument's educational staff that by learning about the past and the life of Booker T. Washington that we can evolve in our understanding of the context of race in our American Society.

Each program content page details how the park can serve as a classroom. It describes unit activities and gives specific objectives for each lesson. Standards of Learning for Virginia Public Schools are stated at the top of each table of contents.

VOCABULARY

Objective: Students will become familiar with terms that they will hear on their trip to Booker T. Washington National Monument.

Subject: Language Arts, Social Studies

Materials: Vocabulary list

Procedure: Use the following list to familiarize students with terms that will be used on their trip.

- 1. slave: a person who is owned and the property of another person
- 2. plantation: a large farm where a cash crop is planted and grown to sell
- 3. cash crop: plants that are grown to sell to make money
- 4. chores: daily work activities
- 5. chopping bee: a neighborhood party to cut wood for fires
- 6. fat back: the fat from a pig that has been salted; a commonly used food for slaves
- 7. skillet: a frying pan
- 8. dutch oven: iron cooking pot used to bake bread, cakes, and cookies
- 9. tobacco: large leafed plant used to make cigars and twists for chewing; the cash crop for the Burroughs plantation
- 10. flax: a plant grown for its fibers. Flax fibers were made into tow cloth, which was used for the slaves clothing.
- 11. corn: a plant grown for food for slaves and animals
- 12. fireplace: used for both heating and cooking

VENN DIAGRAM

Objective: Students will compare and contrast their lives to Booker's.

Subject: Social Studies, Language Arts

Materials: Venn diagram, pencil

Procedure:

1. Discuss Booker's life.

- 2. Discuss aspects of a young person's life today.
- 3. Discuss how Booker's life would be different from a child's of today.
- 4. Discuss how Booker's life would be similar to a child's of today.
- 5. Draw a Venn diagram showing similarities and differences.

WHAT IS A SLAVE?

Objective: Students will act out and think about what it would be like to be a slave.

Subject: Social Studies

Materials: Role playing scenarios and clothing (optional)

Procedure:

1. Create several different role-playing situations that would illustrate Booker's lack of making choices for himself.

EXAMPLES:

Booker was not allowed to chose what he wanted to eat each day.

Booker was not allowed to chose what he wanted to wear.

Booker could not choose to go to school.

Booker was told that he must carry water to the slaves working in the fields.

Booker was told that he must take corn to the mill to be ground.

Booker was told that he must feed the animals.

- 2. Discuss what it means to be a slave.
- 3. Discuss the idea that Booker was property. He was valued at $400 and was owned by James and Elizabeth Burroughs.
- 4. Encourage students to discuss how their lives are different.
- 5. Please be very careful with a role-playing situation. Some students take this well and for others it can be upsetting. Since this is dealing with a racial issue, know your students well. Don't put anyone in an uncomfortable situation.

SING, SING, SING

Objective: Students will learn several songs that would have been sung during Booker's slave boyhood.

Subject: Social Studies, Music

Materials: Strong voices, Slave Songs, by Jerry Silverman, Popular Songs of Nineteenth Century America, by Richard Jackson.

Procedure:

- 1. Select several of the following songs and learn them.
- 2. Discuss the differences between this music and today's music.
- 3. Give a recital for another class or have a sing along.

Songs:

"Blue Tailed Fly" or "Jimmy Crack Corn"

"Michael Row the Boat Ashore"

"Follow the Drinking Gourd"

"Wade in the Water"

"Nobody Knows the Trouble I See"

"All the Pretty Little Horses"

"Raise a Ruckus Tonight"

"Aura Lea" (same tune as "Love Me Tender")

"Camptown Races"

"Listen to the Mockingbird"

"Oh My Darling Clementine"

"Pop Goes the Weasel"

"Shew Fly Don't Bother Me"

"There is a Tavern in the Town"

"Wait for the Wagon"

WHERE DO I GO?

Objective: Students will categorize items from the past and present.

Subject: Social Studies

Materials: Construction paper, pictures, pencil, glue, scissors

Procedure:

1. Fold a piece of construction paper in half.

- 2. Title on one side, Burroughs Plantation. Title on the other side, My House.
- 3. Search for pictures in magazines and have students cut them out, or you could cut out pictures prior to the activity.
- 4. Have students put pictures under each category.
- 5. Discuss why pictures should be in each category to make sure that students understand.
- 6. Glue pictures in the correct category.

BOOKER'S FAVORITE ANIMAL

Objective: Students will write adjectives that describe a pig.

Subject: Language Arts

Materials: Picture of a pig, pencil, crayons

Procedure:

- 1. Lead a discussion with students about Booker's favorite animal, the pig. Encourage students to describe it.
- 2. Discuss how pigs were used on the Burroughs plantation. Booker said that every part of the pig was used except the squeal. What did he mean?
- 3. List on the board words that describe a pig.
- 4. Place at least five words on your pig. A photocopy of a pig is included on the next page.
- 5. Color your pig.
- 6. Optional: Write five sentences using your adjectives.
- 7. Be sure to see if you are correct in describing the pig when you visit Booker T. Washington National Monument.

SWEET POTATO PONE

Objective: Students will bake sweet potato pone.

Subject: Math, measurements, Social Studies

Materials: Ingredients and equipment to make sweet potato pone. See attached list.

Procedure:

1. Make sweet potato pone. See attached sheet.

- 2. Discuss Booker and his favorite treat, the sweet potato.
- 3. Discuss why Booker felt evil when he ate a sweet potato. Ask the following questions:
 - a. Do you remember the sweet potato hole in Booker's cabin?
 - b. Why were the sweet potatoes kept there? Answer: They were kept there for storage and to preserve them.
 - c. To whom did the sweet potatoes belong? Answer: The sweet potatoes belonged to James and Elizabeth Burroughs, the owners.
 - d. Why would Booker feel evil for taking a sweet potato even though he was hungry? Answer: Because the sweet potatoes didn't really belong to Booker or his family. They belonged to the Burroughs, just as Booker did.

SWEET POTATO PONE RECIPE

INGREDIENTS

1- pound sweet potato butter to grease baking pan

1/4 cup butter

1/3 cup brown sugar

1/3 cup maple or corn syrup

1/3 cup milk

2 eggs

1/2 teaspoon allspice

1/2 teaspoon cinnamon

1/4 teaspoon cloves

1/4 teaspoon ginger

1/2 cup chopped nuts

heavy cream or ice cream (optional)

EQUIPMENT

fork

potholders

9-inch round or square baking pan

butter knife

medium mixing bowl

potato masher

measuring cups and spoons

small saucepan wooden spoon small bowl

DIRECTIONS: makes 6 servings

- 1. Wash the sweet potato and prick it with a fork. Then bake it in a 350-degree oven for an hour, or until a fork pierces it easily.
- 2. Have an adult remove the sweet potato from the oven. Set aside until it's cool enough to handle.
- 3. Keep the oven set at 350 degrees. Grease the baking pan with butter.
- 4. Use the butter knife to peel the skin from the sweet potato. Cut the sweet potato into 4 pieces and put them in the mixing bowl. Discard the skin.
- 5. Mash the sweet potato until it is smooth. You should have about 1 cup of mashed sweet potato.
- 6. Melt 1/4 cup of butter in the saucepan over low heat. Then stir the butter into the mashed sweet potato.
- 7. Add the brown sugar, maple or corn syrup, and milk to the sweet potato mixture. Beat until the mixture is smooth.
- 8. Crack the eggs into the small bowl. Beat them with a fork until well mixed. Then stir them into the sweet potato mixture.
- 9. Stir in the allspice, cinnamon, cloves, and ginger. Then add the chopped nuts.
- 10. Spoon the sweet potato pone into the baking pan and bake for 1 hour. It is done when a knife inserted into the pone comes out clean.
- 11. Have an adult remove the sweet potato pone from the oven. Serve it warm or cold. Serve it with cream or ice cream if you'd like.

ACROSTIC

Objective: Students will make an acrostic that tells what they learned about Booker T. Washington.

Subject: Language Arts, Social Studies

Materials: Pencil, paper

Procedure:

1. Discuss your trip to Booker T. Washington National Monument.

2. Brainstorm by writing words and ideas on the board.

3. Make the acrostic. Each line begins with the letter at the beginning. You could do them as sentences, phrases, or just a word. Example:

B ooker was born a slave.

O ccasionally Booker received molasses as a treat.

O nly Booker fed the pigs.

K eeping the flies fanned from the Burroughs' table was Booker's job.

E very day Booker worked.

R arely did Booker play.

FARM ANIMALS

Objective: Students will identify and count animals at Booker T. Washington National Monument then construct a simple bar graph.

Subject: Math, Social Studies

Materials: Paper, pencil, crayons

Procedure:

- 1. On their trip to the monument have students identify all the farm animals they see.
- 2. Have students count each type of animal and keep a tally.
- 3. Have students choose three types of animals and construct a bar graph.
- 4. Another option could be that a class graph could be constructed showing all the animals.

MORE THAN ANYTHING ELSE

Objective: Students will become familiar with Booker's life in Malden, West Virginia.

Subject: Language Arts, Social Studies

Materials: Book: More Than Anything Else by Marie Bradby

Procedure:

1. Read the book to the students.

2. Discuss:

How Booker had to work very hard as a young boy.

What kind of work Booker did.

What is a cooper?

What does Booker want to do more than anything else? Why?

What does Booker's mother give him?

Who helps Booker learn to read?

3. Be sure to inform students that this story happened after Booker left the Burroughs plantation. When he was a slave, Booker was not allowed to learn to read.

CLASS STORY

Objective: Students will write a class story dealing with a slave that becomes free.

Subject: Art, Social Studies, Language Arts

Materials: Paper, pencil, markers, and crayons

Procedure:

1. Discuss Booker's life as a slave with students.

2. Discuss how Booker's life changed when he became free.

- 3. Through class discussion decide on a character that is a slave. This slave will be given his/her freedom.
- 4. Brainstorm how this slave's life will be changed when he/she is freed.
- 5. Write a story as a class that tells three ways in which this slave's life will change when he/she is freed.
- 6. Have students illustrate the story.
- 7. Make a class book that can be kept in the classroom.

WHAT FREEDOM MEANS TO ME

Objective: Students will draw a picture of what freedom means to them.

Subject: Art, Social Studies

Materials: Drawing paper, markers, and crayons

Procedure:

1. Discuss Booker's life as a slave emphasizing the fact that he had few choices.

- 2. Compare Booker's life as a slave with your students' lives. How are they alike? How are they different?
- 3. Discuss how Booker's life changed when he was freed at the end of the Civil War.
- 4. Discuss the types of freedom that we have as Americans.
- 5. Finally, have students draw a picture of "What Freedom Means To Me."

KITE POEMS

Objective: Students will write a kite poem.

Subject: Language Arts, Social Studies

Materials: Paper, pencil, and crayons

Procedure:

1. Discuss Booker and what his life was like on the Burroughs plantation.

2. Brainstorm. Think of words that describe Booker.

3. Write a "kite" poem using the following format:

Line 1: Booker (first name)

Line 2: two adjectives that describe Booker

Line 3: three verbs with -ing endings that describe Booker's actions

Line 4: two adjectives that describe Booker

Line 5: Washington (last name)

EXAMPLE:

BOOKER YOUNG, SMART WORKING, HELPING, LEARNING SELF-RELIANT, DEPENDABLE WASHINGTON

4. The final draft could be written inside an outline of a kite to symbolize how high Booker's character took him.

The Booker T. Washington Story

Booker T. Washington was born in the spring of 1856 on the tobacco farm belonging to James and Elizabeth Burroughs. His mother, a slave called Jane, was the cook for the farm. His father was thought to have been a local white man.

Booker, his mother, brother and sister lived in a small log cabin. The cabin was not only the family's home, but was also used as the kitchen for the plantation. It had no windows. Openings in the side let in the light...but also the cold winter air. There was no wooden floor. Booker later said that he and his family slept on "a bundle of filthy rags laid upon the dirt floor."

Booker's mother often prayed that one day she and her family would be free. The day of freedom finally came at the end of the Civil War when Booker was nine years old. A Union officer read the Emancipation Proclamation from the front porch of the Burroughs house, and all the people who had been held in slavery, including Jane and her children, were freed.

Booker's mother decided to take her children to Malden, West Virginia, where her husband was working in the salt mines. In Malden, Booker began his education. First, he used a spelling book to learn the alphabet. Later, he was able to go to school-although he still had to work to help support his family. He got up early in the morning to work in the coal mines for five hours before going to school at 9:00 a.m. When school was finished for the day, he went back to the mine again.

Washington heard about Hampton Institute, a school for African Americans. Even though it was in Hampton, Virginia, 500 miles away, Booker was determined to go there. He walked most of the 500 miles to school.

Washington received the education he wanted at Hampton Institute while working as a janitor. After graduating, he returned to Malden to teach others. He paid for his brother to attend Hampton too.

Later, Washington returned to Hampton Institute as a teacher. When a group from Tuskegee, Alabama, wrote to Hampton Institute asking for a teacher to start a school, the principal recommended Booker.

When Washington arrived at Tuskegee, there were no buildings and no students. He decided that students at Tuskegee would learn vocational skills while studying practical subjects. Over the years, students built most of the buildings at the school. Students also grew most of the food served at the school. Today, the school is called Tuskegee University and remains a prestigious Historically Black University.

Washington traveled throughout the country to raise money for the school. He gave many speeches. In 1895, he gave a speech called "The Atlanta Address." This speech made him famous because it encouraged economic progress while not challenging racial segregation, a very controversial subject.

In his later years, Washington became even better known. His autobiography, Up From Slavery, was one of 13 books he published. He received an honorary degree from Harvard University. He was an adviser to three Presidents--William McKinley, Theodore Roosevelt, and William Howard Taft.

Dr. Booker T. Washington died in 1915. He is buried on the campus of Tuskegee University in Alabama.

Emancipation Proclamation

Lincoln signed the following official version of the proclamation on January 1, 1863:

Whereas, on the twenty-second day of September,* in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and sixty-two, a proclamation was issued by the President of the United States, containing, among other things, the following, to wit:

That on the first day of January, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and sixty-three, all persons held as slaves within any State or designated part of a State, the people whereof shall then be in rebellion against the United States, shall be then, thenceforward, and forever free; and the Executive Government of the United States, including the military and naval authority thereof, will recognize and maintain the freedom of such persons, and will do no act or acts to repress such persons, or any of them, in any efforts they may make for their actual freedom.

That the Executive will, on the first day of January aforesaid, by proclamation, designate the States and parts of States, if any, in which the people thereof, respectively, shall then be in rebellion against the United States; and the fact that any State, or the people thereof, shall on that day be, in good faith, represented in the Congress of the United States by members chosen thereto at elections wherein a majority of the qualified voters of such State shall have participated, shall, in the absence of strong countervailing testimony, be deemed conclusive evidence that such State, and the people thereof, are not then in rebellion against the United States.

Now, therefore, I, Abraham Lincoln, President of the United States, by virtue of the power in me vested as Commander-in-Chief, of the Army and Navy of the United States in time of actual armed rebellion against the authority and government of the United States, and as a fit and necessary war measure for suppressing said rebellion, do, on this first day of January, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and sixty-three, and in accordance with my purpose so to do publicly proclaimed for the full period of one hundred days, from the day first above mentioned, order and designate as the States and parts of States wherein the people thereof respectively, are this day in rebellion against the United States, the following, to wit:

Arkansas, Texas, Louisiana, (except the Parishes of St. Bernard, Plaquemines, Jefferson, St. John, St. Charles, St. James Ascension, Assumption, Terrebonne, Lafourche, St. Mary, St. Martin, and Orleans, including the city of New Orleans) Mississippi, Alabama, Florida, Georgia, South Carolina, North Carolina, and Virginia, (except the forty-eight counties designated as West Virginia, and also the counties of Berkley, Accomac, Northampton, Elizabeth City, York, Princes, Ann, and Norfolk, including the cities of Norfolk and Portsmouth), and which excepted parts, are for the present, left precisely as if this proclamation were not issued. And by virtue of the power, and for the purpose aforesaid, I do order and declare that all persons held as slaves within said designated States, and parts of States, are, and henceforward shall be free; and that the Executive government of the United States, including the military and naval authorities thereof, will recognize and maintain the freedom of said persons.

And I hereby enjoin upon the people so declared to be free to abstain from all violence, unless in necessary self-defence; and I recommend to them that, in all cases when allowed, they labor faithfully for reasonable wages.

And I further declare and make known, that such persons of suitable condition, will be received into the armed service of the United States to
